LDA b b Appraisal statement: These records are being retained primarily because of the information they contain about persons in 19th century Washington. They show family relationships, precise dates of death, ages of children, full names of family members, and other information eagerly sought by genealogists. In addition there is information about location of land owned by the family, including whether or not the property has a building on it, which may be used to locate where a family lived (as well as saying something about the economic status of the family).

LDB b b Retention and disposition: Permanent.
